RBFCU

Randolph-Brooks FCU (RBFCU) Remote Access User Agreement

Purpose: RBFCU realizes the need for remote access into its systems as a convenient and expeditious manner in which to support and execute assigned work tasks. The undersigned agrees that by being granted this access the individual can achieve the work tasks while complying with terms of this document and the related policies and requirements referenced herein.

Scope: This document applies to all RBFCU employees, contractors, contingent workers, consultants, temporaries, and other workers ("User") utilizing remote access to RBFCU systems and data. All remote access will be centrally managed by RBFCU and will utilize encryption and strong authentication measures. The use of screen sharing, conferencing or collaboration systems (ie Webex, LoopUp, GoToMeeting, etc) are not within scope of this policy provided the remote user does not create a network connection directly to remotely control an RBFCU asset. Users should consult the RBFCU IT department for applicable policies.

Policy: The signer agrees to the following:

1. User will follow acceptable use policy as it pertains to the proper use of RBFCU systems and data. The relevant policies are available in the RBFCU handbook.
2. User hereby affirms and acknowledges their responsibility to ensure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of all forms of information in accordance with the policies outlined in the RBFCU handbook. User agrees not to store any confidential information on any system not authorized by RBFCU for that purpose.
3. Remote connectivity is provided for specific business purposes and should be used in accordance with that purpose. Remote access is to be requested using the RBFCU ticketing system. The business purpose will be documented there along with a signed copy of this form.
4. Use of the provided connectivity, systems, and/or software for personal reasons is prohibited.
5. User will use only supplied login information and approved devices, never share login information or devices. Furthermore User will not alter and shall safeguard remote access hardware, software and documentation from unauthorized use
6. User is responsible for maintaining all end user remote access systems that are the property of the User, which includes the handling of technical problems, providing the hardware, software and Internet provider connections necessary for remote access.
7. User understands that some remote access software cannot be exported or used in other countries outside of the United States. Remote access outside of the United States must be approved by RBFCU IT management prior to an attempt to do so.
8. RBFCU limits, and reserves the right to limit further without notice, access to other systems and devices while using remote access technologies even if the connecting devices do not belong to RBFCU.
9. RBFCU will enforce inactivity timeouts to prevent access from an unattended terminal. Taking actions to prevent this control from functioning are prohibited.
10. Only equipment and software approved by RBFCU may be used to conduct remote access activities. Those devices are to have, in good working order, controls to limit access to the device (logins, authorizations) and prevent malicious activity (firewall, software patches, antivirus, logging, etc). If User suspects any of these controls to not be functioning properly User will contact the RBFCU service desk for assistance before attempting to connect to RBFCU systems.
11. All devices not owned by RBFCU and used for business must be used in compliance with all RBFCU policies. RBFCU retains the right to inspect any data sent into or extracted from the RBFCU network.
12. Remote access extends the RBFCU activity monitoring requirements beyond the conventional RBFCU network. RBFCU will monitor activity that occurs while a user is utilizing remote access. User must understand and accept any privacy implications that might arise when using remote access prior to engaging in the activity.
13. The RBFCU Service Desk must be notified immediately upon detection or suspicion of any security incident, especially when a device may have been lost or stolen.
14. User understands that failure to abide by these conditions may result in access to any and all RBFCU computer/information systems being terminated without notice and can also result in termination of employment or contract.
